FRIDAY, - - - AUG. 13, 1886.

FOR CONGRESS,

NINTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT,

MAJ. R. R. HENRY,

Of Tazewell County, Virginia.

Below is the platform as adopted by the Democratic convention at Wytheville. It has been copied all over the State, and is declared to voice the sentiments of the Democratic people of Virginia. A Lynchburg paper says that a man who will continue to charge the Democracy with free-trade ideas is either fool or scoundrel:

First. Whilst we recognize the necessity for such revision of the tariff as may be necessary to correct its inequalities, yet we are opposed to any reduction in the rates of duty upon foreign imports that will injuriously affect our own industries or tend to a reduction in the price of labor, and especially are we opposed to putting raw materials on the free list.

Second. We are earnestly in favor of repealing the entire system of the internal revenue laws.

Third. We recognize it to be both the right and the duty of the Government to aid in educating its citizens, and we are, therefore, in favor of the Blair Bill or some similar beneficial measure.

Fourth. We are in favor of the continued coinage of silver.

Fifth. That, after the demands of the Government have been met, any surplus money that may be left in the Treasury of the United States be applied to the reduction of the national public debt, thereby stopping the interest.

Sixth. That the no nine of the Convention is expected to advocate the principles announced in these resolutions.

Congress has adjourned. It has done some things which perhaps it ought not to have done and left undone some things it should have done. But its record is on the whole very good. Mr. Randall says:

"We have returned to the public domain millions of acres of the public lands taken by insatiable corporations. We have entered upon the holding of a new navy. We have passed every act that we have been asked to pass having for its purpose the bettering of the condition of the laboring people. We have not, in a single instance, passed any bill in favor of monopolies. We have given the Senate an opportunity to pass an Interstate Commerce bill, which only forty men on that side dared to vote against. The appropriation bills, as they have passed this House, are freer from unnecessary and suspicious propositions than any appropriation bills passed by any Congress since the war. We have done so well that we ought to, and I believe will, receive the confidence of the American people. When we came here there were thousands and thousands of people idle in the United States, but to day there is not, in my judgment, a laboring man who wants to work who cannot secure work [applause]; and that comes, in a large degree, from the confidence which this House and a Democratic Executive have given to the American people. [Applause.]"

Mr. Reagan says:

He did not attempt to be witty or smart; but he dealt with a few facts that the gentleman from Maine could not answer. The House has passed a Land-Grant Forfeiture bill, a resolution proposing to pay out the surplus in the Treasury, an Interstate Commerce bill, and a bill to prevent the absorption of the public lands by railroads, and all of these the Republicans have opposed. "When the number of bills passed at this session comes to be considered," it will be found that this Democratic House, has performed more labor and passed more bills than any House of Representatives since the foundation of the government.

GO IT MR. CLEVELAND.

President Cleveland has reappointed Messrs. C. W. Button, M. Glenn and Oscar D. Derr to be postmaster at Lynchburg, Norfolk and Roanoke, respectively. Mr. Button was rejected by a Republican Senate and Messrs. Derr's and Glenn's nominations were not acted upon. By reappointing these gentlemen, for they are gentlemen of the truest type, Mr. Cleveland has shown his appreciation of right and justice and his utter contempt for anything that is mean and low.

PRESS OPINIONS.

[Lynchburg Virginian.] Well informed persons from the 9th district assure us that the nomination of Maj. Henry is a very strong one—the strongest that could have been made. It is gratifying to know that the flag of the old north is in hands that will gallantly bear it to victory.

[Abingdon Virginian.] Maj. Henry presents the true type of physical and mental manhood to such a degree that his commanding figure will attract attention in any crowd.

[Petersburg Virginian.] He is a man of splendid and manly physique, about 6 ft. 1 in. high, of commanding bearing, and called the handsomest man in the district.

He is an educated gentleman of polished manner, the result of a charitable and kind heart. No man living has a greater sympathy with the people and their wants and needs than Henry. He is a Democrat of the young type. A leader that the young Democracy will follow with wild enthusiasm and that the grand old veterans will respect.

[Glade Spring Citizen.] He is a first-class man in every respect, and every Democrat in the district should go to work and help roll up such a majority for him as was never before given.

[Richmond Whig.] Maj. Henry is an able and popular gentleman, and will no doubt receive the hearty support of every Democrat in the district.

[Lynchburg News.] That he is a strong candidate—perhaps the very strongest of any man in the district is a self-evident fact. That he will be elected in November is as certain as the election day rolls around.

[Lynchburg Advance.] Maj. Henry is a gentleman of culture and character, a lawyer of very fine abilities and thoroughly identified with the people and all of their interests. He will be elected.

[Correspondent.] The Democratic party of the Ninth District is now championed for the fall campaign. Let every Democrat go to work for the nominee who is worthy of the most liberal support of a party that advocates good government for and by the people.

[Wytheville Express.] He was born in the city of Petersburg, nearly 41 years ago; was educated at Hampden-Sydney College; entered the Confederate army as a private soldier, whilst yet a mere stripling of a boy; fought like a hero in defense of his State, paid the penalty of his pluck in blood, shed upon the battle field. At the close of the war he began the practice of his chosen profession, and lived for a short time in Rappahannock county, Va. Here he obeyed the biblical injunction, "marry, multiply, and replenish the earth." He wooed and won for his bride, the young and accomplished Miss Ashby, of Culpeper, a fair cousin of that Prince of Cavaliers, Gen'l Turner Ashby. In 1869 he moved to Wise county, and resided there until 1875, when he located at his present home in Tazewell county.

In person he is about six feet high, weighs over 200 pounds, and is compactly and stoutly built. He has a large intellectual head, and a frank, open face. His bearing is courteous and dignified, and his presence would attract attention in any assembly. He is a good lawyer, a forcible debater, and an honorable gentleman. As a result of these attributes he is said to have made a host of warm personal friends in both political parties, and has but few enemies, if any, in either.

[Petersburg Index-Apprentice.] ANOTHER DISTINGUISHED PETERSBURGER.—Major R. R. Henry, the Democratic nominee for Congress in the ninth district of Virginia is an old Petersburg boy and his nomination gives great pleasure to his friends here. Major Henry went into the war as a mere stripling, but his daring and courage soon showed that he was a born soldier. He left this city as a member of the Petersburg Riflemen with which company he served until made by General Mahone one of his couriers. At the battle of the Crater he was severely wounded, but immediately upon his recovery rejoined the army and served with gallantry until the close of the war. For years past he has been practicing law with great success in Tazewell county. At the last Democratic state convention Major Henry received a large vote for the position of Attorney General, the solid Petersburg delegation cordially supporting him. All of "Bob's" old schoolmates and play fellows here wish him good luck in his canvass, and as he is in a white district he is very apt to "get there."

[F. T. Wall's Letter.] Hon. Chas. T. O'Ferrall, of Cocke, has been unanimously re-nominated for Congress from the Seventh District. In the Ninth District, the Congressional convention met at Wytheville, Wednesday, Maj. R. R. Henry, of Tazewell, was nominated on the first ballot, the vote being, Henry, 97; Trigg, 63. Maj. Henry's nomination was made with unanimous great enthusiasm. It is regarded as a very strong nomination. Maj. H. is a grand son of Mrs. John B. Hall, of this place. He attended school here before the war, and at the age of sixteen entered the Confederate army, where he served gallantly until the close of that sanguinary struggle. He is a ripe scholar, and will make a splendid representative.
